CAFFE STRATEGIES Speaker
Intercultural Creativity® & NeuroSomatic Creativity®

Amy Camie, recognized as “The Healing Harpist,” is a Certified Therapeutic/Clinical Musician, 35 year professional harpist, speaker, author, and 2-time breast cancer thriver who empowers individuals, groups, and organizations with unique perspectives on music, resonance, and honest self-exploration.

Certified in Intercultural Creativity®, she recognizes the opportunity for learning in every experience and encourages audiences to open their mind, expand perceptions, and be curious to discover deeper connections within and around them.

As a pioneer in the field of harp therapy, Amy has co-authored two clinical trials exploring the use of specific music with cancer patients. She continues to deepen the conversation about music, creativity, and self-discovery through talks, programs, articles, and interviews.

Building Tolerance and Empathy Through Music

Using music as a metaphor to expand perceptions
increase understanding create connection

Music is personal, social, and cultural. Expanding how we listen to music develops skills of empathy that increase understanding, self-awareness, and connections within and around us.

Through fun demonstrations of resonance and neuroscience research, this program reveals how each individual creates and contributes through their unique perspective and experiences.

Groups and teams thrive as trust builds, listening improves, perspectives shift, compassion grows and common connections are recognized, creating a sense of community that encourages creativity and engagement.

Testimonials

"Enthusiasm topped the charts! Brought up points I had never considered!"
audience comment, Oncology Massage Therapy Summit

"I almost did not get out in time because people kept stopping me to tell me how much they enjoyed the program. I think you not only hit a home run, . . . you hit a grand slam!!" ~ Program Coord. USDA/NASS

"As an engineer, we're taught these concepts. I just never thought to apply them in this way." Audience comment, St. Anthony's Hospital

"The pieces about harmony vs. meeting the other person where they are or trying to bring them to your frequency is SO RELEVANT to interpersonal relationships and social work in a professional setting. SO ENLIGHTENING - THANK YOU! THANK YOU! THANK YOU!"
