Certified Clinical Musician
Intercultural Creativity® Speaker

Amy Camie, recognized as “The Healing Harpist,” is a Certified Clinical Musician, speaker, author, and 2-time breast cancer thriver who loves empowering others with unique perspectives on how music, resonance, and honest self-exploration create bridges of compassion within ourselves and empathy with others.

As a pioneer in the field of harp therapy, Amy has co-authored two clinical trials and several pilot studies demonstrating the effects of her music on brain waves, immune system function, and anxiety levels.

Certified in Intercultural Creativity®, Amy recognizes the potential opportunity for learning in every experience. She encourages audiences to open their mind, expand perceptions, observe beyond the current happenings, and discover deeper connections within themselves, creating more clarity, peace and harmony within and around them.

Amy's original music is used in healthcare settings as well as for general relaxation and stress reduction. Her inspired music relaxes the body, calms the mind, and gently soothes the soul.

KEYNOTES & TRAININGS

tailored to your audience - virtual or in-person

Building Tolerance & Empathy through Music

Conscious Self-Care through the lens of resonance

“ As an engineer, we're taught these concepts. I just never thought to apply them in this way.

Very interesting and a new way of thinking.

Enthusiasm topped the charts!
Brought up points I had never considered! ”
